LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

THE HOUSE COMMISSION ON INFORMATION AND FACILITIES,
Washington, D.C., June 18, 1976.

Hon. CARL ALBERT,
Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: The House Commission on Information and Facilities was directed by House Resolution 988, 93d Congress, to study "the information problems of the House of Representatives against the background of the existing institutions and services available to the House."

In working toward this directive, the Commission's Task Force on Information Resources has compiled an annotated inventory of such existing institutions and services. The inventory is being published in sections. Part one, information resources available in and from the House of Representatives, has been completed and is transmitted herewith.

Sincerely,

JACK BROOKS, Chairman.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

TASK FORCE ON INFORMATION RESOURCES,
THE HOUSE COMMISSION ON INFORMATION AND FACILITIES,
Washington, D.C., June 18, 1976.

Hon. JACK BROOKS,
Chairman, House Commission on Information and Facilities.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Task Force on Information Resources is preparing a series of annotated inventories of resources identified during our study of information resources available to the House of Representatives.

The first inventory, a catalogue of services and sources in the House of Representatives, has been completed and the document is forwarded herewith.

Sincerely,

DON FUQUA, Chairman.

Enclosure.

PREFACE

Under Section 204, subsections (b) and (c), of House Resolution 988 of the 93d Congress, the House Commission on Information and Facilities was directed to conduct a complete and thorough study of the information needs and problems of the House of Representatives against the background of the existing institutions and services. The Commission established a Task Force on Information Resources and delegated the major part of this function to them.

Numerous files and library shelves are filled with studies of the House of Representatives. Taking this fact into consideration, the Members of the Task Force on Information Resources planned their studies so that there would be an end product which would continue to be a useful tool for Members and their staffs after the Commission's final report had been filed with the Speaker.

Toward this end, the Task Force instructed the staff to put together an annotated inventory of information resources presently available to Members and staff of the House. To make the inventory manageable, it was divided into several sections. Information resources available within the House itself constitutes the first section of that inventory. The second part will consist of information resources available from other legislative branch offices and agencies—the Senate, the Architect of the Capitol, the Library of Congress including the Congressional Research Service, the General Accounting Office, the Government Printing Office, the Congressional Budget Office, and the Office of Technology Assessment. Private information resources, as well as those of the executive and judicial branches of the Federal Government, will complete the inventory.

Each section of the inventory will be published individually by the Commission, as is being done with this document, so that Members and their staffs will have an opportunity to study the listings and provide the Task Force with any recommendations or suggestions regarding the substance or format of the material.

The Commission's plan is to combine these reports, after all are published, into an information handbook which would complement the House Congressional Handbook now published by the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations.

This report, "An Inventory of Information Resources in the U.S. House of Representatives", is the first part of that collection. We are hopeful that the approach taken by the Commission and its Task Force on Information Resources will provide the Members of the House and their staffs with a basis for assessing the information problems and needs of the House as well as with a useful reference tool to assist them with their information needs.

INTRODUCTION: INFORMATION AS A BASIC WORKING TOOL

This inventory has been prepared to list in one document all the information resources and services provided by the House of Representatives. The categories of information covered include: (1) legislation and the legislative process; (2) management of congressional offices; and (3) the organization and operation of Congress.

Within the House, there are multiple resources of information of value to Members and staff employees. Some of these resources are static, such as compilations of rules, precedents, and so on. Other resources are dynamic, providing up-dated information on policy, legislative scheduling, and the status of legislation. These dynamic resources include individual officers and officials of the House, daily publications and computer systems.

For the convenience of the reader, this report is arranged first by category of information provided, then by information resources within each category. The first reference to each information resource describes the nature of that resource; subsequent references, in the case of resources providing more than one kind of information, do not repeat that description. In general, dynamic and changing information resources are described first, followed by the more static and permanent collections of information.

The numbers in parentheses following positions or officers are their telephone extensions.

SECTION 1: INFORMATION ON LEGISLATION AND THE LEGISLATIVE PROCESS

THE LEADERSHIP

The Speaker (5–5415), the majority (5–8040) and minority (5–0600) leaders and the majority (5–5604) and minority (5–6201) whips provide information on the legislative activity of the House as a whole.

These offices are sources of information concerning the respective majority and minority positions on issues and on specific proposed legislation. In addition, they are the prime source of information on planned and pending House floor action.

Regular publications issued by the leadership include the weekly Whip Notice, a list of legislation scheduled for floor action during the following week, supplemented by the Whip Pack, containing copies of the listed bills and resolutions along with the relevant committee reports; and, from the Majority Whip, Whip Advisories, short explanations of important bills, resolutions and conference reports.

A telephone call (5–1600) to a recording provided by the Majority Whip will provide the daily and weekly legislative program, summary of actions taken, changes in schedule, and legislative announcements. For other legislative telephone services, see the section under "Cloakrooms."

THE PARLIAMENTARIAN

The Parliamentarian (5–7373) advises the Speaker, individual Members and committees, and the presiding officer when the House is in session, with regard to rules of the House, parliamentary procedure and practice and the precedents of the House. At the direction of the Speaker, the Parliamentarian refers newly introduced bills and resolutions to the appropriate committees. The Parliamentarian can provide advice to Members in advance of the introduction of bills and resolutions as to the probable committee to which such proposed legislation will be referred.

THE CLOAKROOMS

A telephone call to the Democratic (5–7400) and Republican (5–7430) Cloakrooms can elicit information regarding current and pending activity on the floor of the House. Available information includes the results of votes taken, current proceedings, summaries of the day's proceeding and the time of adjournment, the convening time, and the legislative program for the next session of the House. This information is provided both live and in the form of recordings.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Upon request, the Legislative Counsel (5–6060) provides confidential and impartial assistance to individual Members and to committees in the professional drafting of bills, resolutions, amendments, committee reports, conference reports and any accompanying explanatory statement. Also available through this office, upon request, is advice with respect to the legal implications of policy alternatives.

During consideration of any legislation by the House, the Member having control of time may have a member of the Legislative Counsel's office on the floor to advise and assist that Member and, to the extent feasible, any other Member who requests such assistance.

CLERK OF THE HOUSE AND STAFF

The Clerk (5–7000) is the chief administrative officer of the House and additional information about this office is contained in Section 2 of this report. (Also see page 58.)

Serving under the Clerk of the House, various officials are sources of information on bills and resolutions as they move through the legislative process.

The Bill Clerk

The Bill Clerk (5–4470) assigns the number to bills and resolutions as they are introduced, and to committee reports. The Bill Clerk's office should be contacted whenever an error is found in legislation which has already been printed. This office will assist in identifying the error and will arrange for the printing of a corrected version known as a "Star Print." The Bill Clerk's office can also provide information on communications to the House from State legislatures and from Federal and State executive agencies.

The Daily Digest Clerk

The Daily Digest Clerk (5–2868) prepares the summaries and schedules of congressional activities that appear on the last several pages of the daily Congressional Record. The Daily Digest provides a convenient summary of the previous day's activities in each Chamber with an index to the appropriate pages in the Record, and also contains a schedule of committee meetings and hearings and the legislative program for the day of publication. The Digest provides information on all bills and amendments acted upon and numerical results of all rollcall votes and summaries of hearings and meetings held by committees. Each Friday's issue contains a section outlining the schedule floor and committee activities for the coming week.

Enrolling Clerk

The Enrolling Clerk (5–5848) may serve as a source of information on the provisions contained in a piece of legislation as finally passed by the House, since it is the function of this official to receive bills for engrossment and to assure that the proper messages on legislation passed by the House are sent to the Senate.

Journal Clerk

The Journal Clerk (5–4110) compiles the minutes of floor proceedings which serve as the official record of the House. At the end of each session of Congress, the Journal Clerk's office publishes these official minutes in a bound volume with an index. This volume is a more direct record than the "substantially verbatim" edited text of the Congressional Record.

Tally Clerk

The Tally Clerk (5–4710) is responsible for recording the votes on the floor of the House and produces the Calendars of the U.S. House of Representatives and History of Legislation, which is described in the section on publications.

PUBLICATIONS

Calendars of the U.S. House of Representatives

The Calendars of the U.S. House of Representatives and History of Legislation, produced by the Tally Clerk, is the official daily list of all bills which have been reported out of committee and await final disposition by the House. Prepared each day the House is in session, it also provides, for bill status reference, a complete numerical listing and up-to-date history of all bills which have passed either Chamber or are pending on the calendars. Each Monday edition of the Calendars supplies a subject index of all such legislation.

Bills which are presently in or have gone through conference committees are listed daily in the "Calendars," together with the names of conferees and the dates of action on the bills, as are cumulative lists of public and private laws per session, legislation and incidental information about the business of the House.

In detail, the "Calendars" provide the following useful information:

(1) The "History of Legislation," a numerical listing of bills and resolutions which to date have been reported by committees, pending on calendars, or passed by either or both bodies of Congress. Following each bill number is a brief subject descriptive title keyed to the Index, and a complete chronological history of legislative action taken on the bill. Similar or identical bills, and bills having reference to each other, are indicated in parentheses.

(2) An index of the above legislation by subject, identifying bill numbers in the "History" (published in Monday edition only).

(3) Calendars of the House (Union, House, Private, Consent, and Committee Discharge). Each of these calendars, prefaced by the House Rule describing it, lists the bills which have been referred to it by the Speaker, in the order of their referral. With the exception of the Discharge Calendar, each calendar has four columns which indicate, from left to right, (a) the bill number and date of report; (b) the committee and committee member filing the report and the report number; (c) the full title and sponsor(s) of the bill or resolution; and (d) the bill's calendar number, which is assigned sequentially upon referral to that calendar. Bills on the Consent Calendar are cross-referenced to the Union or House Calendar. The Calendar of Motions to Discharge Committees indicates the motion number and date filed, the bill in question, the committee whose discharge is sought, and the sponsor of the discharge motion.

(4) A table of "Bills In Conference," listing all bills presently in the custody of a conference committee to work out disagreements between House- and Senate-passed versions. This table identifies the respective House and Senate conferees on each bill, the dates when the conference committees were established, and dates on which conference reports are filed and acted upon in each body.

(5) A table of "Bills Through Conference," showing the same information as above for all bills which have been through a conference committee, and indicating Presidential action taken and, where appropriate, the public law number.

(6) Numerical listing of Public Laws and Private Laws enacted to date, with corresponding bill numbers.

(7) Any pending Special Orders and Unfinished Business of the House.

(8) Special Legislative Days (on which certain business is in order, as specified by the House Rules), and their occurrence in the current month.

Probably the most useful elements of the House Calendar are the "Index" and "History of Legislation," for they provide handy status reports on all bills on which committee and floor action has taken place. The subject items in the "Index" are keyed by title to those listed numerically in the "History," and vice versa.

Congressional Record

The Congressional Record, and the Daily Digest appended to it, constitute the official daily account of the floor activity and other proceedings of Congress. The Record provides a substantially verbatim report of the proceedings of the House and Senate, and includes (besides speeches and announcements) such incidental but useful information as government reports and data on legislation, texts of amendments and conference reports, Presidential communications and miscellaneous material inserted by Members.

During the course of debate on legislation, which comprises the major portion of each issue of the Record, Members insert charts, graphs, reports and other data. This information, which may be found useful, is thus scattered throughout the Record, as are the results of votes taken, announcements by the Chair, and announcements by the leadership and the committees.

The information contained in the Record can be very roughly located in sections. Miscellaneous remarks by Members, called "1-minute speeches," are ordinarily at the beginning of each day's session, along with announcements of various types. This is usually followed by the floor debate on the scheduled legislation. Special orders, which are lengthy speeches by Members on various subjects and often include informative insertions, are located toward the end, after the regular legislative business. The titles of bills and resolutions introduced, referred, and reported, the texts of amendments, and a listing of executive communications to the Congress are found at the end of each day's session.

Finally, the Record contains, just before the Daily Digest, a special appendix section called "Extension of Remarks," containing extraneous comments and insertions by Members which are not delivered on the floor. Periodically, it also lists the Members and officers of the Congress and the Federal Government, and the laws and regulations governing the Record's publication. The Daily Digest, which was added to the Record as a result of the 1946 Legislative Reorganization Act, provides an action summary of the previous day's proceedings in each House and a description of the data is contained in the section on the Daily Digest Clerk (see page 2).

Federal law requires the semimonthly publication of an index to the Congressional Record. This index has two sections: the first, arranged by subject and Member, is subdivided according to remarks by, bills or amendments introduced by or about, and references to; the second is called the "History of Bills and Resolutions" and gives histories and Record page numbers of bills introduced or acted upon during the 2-week period covered. The front page of the Index carries a page index for the daily issues of the Record covered by that issue.

House Rules and Procedures

A number of congressional publications provide authoritative information on current and historical precedents and practices in the House of Representatives. These documents are useful legislative information resources but they are primarily documents on the organization and operation of Congress. Therefore, they have been included in that section. They include: Jefferson's Manual and Rules of the House of Representatives, Deschler's Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, Cannon's Procedures in the House of Representatives, Hinds' Precedents of the House of Representatives and Cannon's Precedents of the House of Representatives, How Our Laws Are Made, Manual on Legislative Procedure in the United States House of Representatives, Rules Adopted by the Committees of Congress, and Court Proceedings and Actions of Vital Interest to the Congress.

Member's Individual Voting Record

This Voting Record consists of a running series of computer printouts distributed to Members only by the Clerk of the House of Representatives at intervals approximately coinciding with the completion of each 100 rollcall votes or quorum calls in the House. The Voting Record is compiled on an individual basis for each Member and shows the figures concerning his or her own responses to recorded rollcalls. Included in the computer printout are:

(1) The rollcall numbers and dates of House votes together with the pages on which the votes appeared in the daily Congressional Record;
(2) A brief description of the votes;
(3) The response of the Member to each vote;
(4) The total vote or response;
(5) A personal cumulative voting record, showing:
(a) The number of recorded votes and quorum calls:
(b) The number of responses by the Member, when present;
(c) The number of the Member's absences;
(d) Percentage figures on the Member's presence for recorded votes and quorum calls.

Congressional Handbook

The Joint Committee on Congressional Operations (5–8267) publishes the Congressional Handbook containing information useful to the Members in their legislative duties. The document is described in Section 2.

While the committees of the House are users of information, they also are suppliers of data needed by the individual Member's office. Beyond the obvious service of providing status information about bills and hearings, the various committees of the House offer a wide variety of information resources, ranging from copies of detailed and specialized research studies, to assistance in the daily operations of a congressional office. Individual professional staff members are especially well-informed sources of information regarding the background and development of issues and legislation within their committees' jurisdictions. The various documents published by committees—calendars, hearing transcripts, bill reports and committee prints—often prove to be valuable information aids. In addition several committees provide special services above and beyond their customary legislative operations, which provide specific information assistance.

Committee Jurisdictions

The following is a list of House committee jurisdictions, by subject, as compiled from Rule X of the House Rules. This list only provides the primary jurisdictions as stated in the Rules. An expansion of this subject list for an Information Handbook would contain additional cross-referencing of subjects and multijurisdiction of items under the major subjects.

Committee Calendars

Although the only general publication each committee is required by the House Rules to issue is a report to the House of its activities during the previous Congress, most committees periodically publish a legislative calendar with computerized assistance from H.I.S.

A typical committee calendar will provide the following information:

(1) Committee members and staff;
(2) Jurisdiction, authority, powers and duties;
(3) Subcommittee membership and jurisdiction;
(4) Reports on legislation issued to date;
(5) Hearings held to date;
(6) Committee prints and other documents published to date;
(7) Executive messages related to committee operations;
(8) Numerical listing of all bids referred to the committee, with chronological histories of referrals and actions taken. Identical bills are so noted; and
(9) Author and subject indexes of legislation before the committee.

The committee calendars are limited to information about action already taken on legislation, and contain no prospective schedules or announcements.

Committee Hearings

The type of information contained in committee hearing transcripts can generally be classed as one of four types, depending upon the nature of the hearings:

(1) Exploratory hearings provide testimony and data about general topical areas;
(2) Legislative hearings provide testimony and data about one or more specific pieces of legislation;
(3) Evaluative and oversight hearings provide testimony and data about the economy and efficiency of program operations; and
(4) Appropriation hearings provide interconnected testimony and data about department or agency operations, oversight activities, and comparative fiscal information.

Committee hearings, rarely summarized, are provided with a table of contents and/or index, and often appendixes containing pertinent material.

Committee Reports

Committee reports, which accompany all bills voted out of committee to the floor of the House, describe the purpose and scope of the bill and the reasons for its recommended approval. Under the Rules of the House, any changes in existing law must be indicated by typographical comparison (known as the "Ramseyer" rule), and committee amendments must be set out and explained at the beginning of the report. The results of any rollcall votes taken on a motion to report the bill in committee must also be included.

Reports are printed in a single volume which must include (except in the case of Rules Committee reports) any minority, supplemental or additional committee member's views. The cover must always indicate when such views are included. If a committee report is lengthy, it will often be accompanied by a brief pamphlet summary of its key provisions and recommendations.

Committee reports on public bills, particularly appropriations bills, are now required to contain various fiscal and budget information, including an estimate of the costs to be incurred (or revenues to be raised or lost) in the fiscal year the bill is reported and the five succeeding fiscal years; a comparative estimate of the same costs submitted by a government agency; a comparative statement on the budget; a detailed statement about any possible inflationary effects of the bill, and oversight findings and recommendations.

Reports from committees of conference, which are required by House Rules to be printed in full in the Congressional Record, must be accompanied by an explanatory statement prepared jointly by the House and Senate conferees, sufficiently detailed and explicit to inform Members of the effect the amendments or propositions contained in the report will have upon the original measure.

Committee Prints

Committee prints are documents prepared for the use and reference of a given committee, either as staff or consultant research studies, activity reports, or compilations of materials of general interest. The committee prints may or may not have the approval of the Members of the Committee. They are not necessarily related to any legislation, although many committee prints are working studies prepared in the course of formulating legislation, and are consequently often very useful to others interested in that given area. If lengthy, they are provided with a table of contents and/or index. Also see the section on committee information of specific legislative interest, page 47.

Committee Staff and Files

Committee and subcommittee staff are able to provide, to Members requesting it, analytical, background, technical and status information about legislation before their committee or subcommittee as well as information concerning forthcoming hearings, agenda and scheduled witnesses. Subcommittee staff will often be able to provide more specific information about a piece of legislation than the full committee staff.

Under the rules of the House, all committee hearings, records, data, charts, and files remain the property of the House and all Members are entitled to consult them. However, there may be some restrictions on the use of the information contained in these papers. Records and files obtained in executive session or carrying a national security classification are covered by the rules of the House, and/or the committee, and may also be covered by other regulations and laws. Therefore, before using or disclosing information from such files and records, it is suggested that the committee counsel be consulted.

Committee Information of Specific Legislative Interest

The various committees of the House periodically publish documents, usually committee prints, which contain information of specific legislative interest. Following is a list of examples of such documents published by the committees. A complete list for a committee is available in most committee calendars.

Committee on Agriculture.—"Briefing Session for New Members and Staffs. Review of basic laws and programs within the jurisdiction." Committee print (February 1975).

Committee on Armed Services.—"Report to the Full Committee on Access by Members of Congress to Classified Materials." Committee print (94–28).

Committee on Banking and Currency.—"Basic Laws and Authorities on Housing and Community Development." Committee print (July 31, 1975).

Committee on the Budget.—"The Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974: A General Explanation."

Committee on Education and Labor.—"A compilation of Federal Education Laws as amended through December 31, 1974." Committee print (February 1975).

Committee on Government Operations.—"Oversight Plans of the Committees of the U.S. House of Representatives." House Report (94–61).

Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.—Oversight hearings on nuclear energy.

Committee on International Relations.—"Chronologies of Major Developments in Selected Areas of International Relations." Committee print.

Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.—"Material concerning the Effects of Government Regulation of Railroads and an Economic Profile of Railroads in the United States." Committee print.

Committee on the Judiciary.—"The United States Courts, Their Jurisdiction and Work." Committee print.

Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.—"A compilation of Federal Laws Relating to Conservation and Development of Our Nation's Fish and Wildlife Resources, Environmental Quality, and Oceanography." Committee print (January 1975).

Committee on Post Office and Civil Service.—"Current Salary Schedules of Federal Officers and Employees together with a History of Salary and Retirement Annuity Adjustments." Committee print (November 12, 1975).

Committee on Public Works and Transportation.—"United States Code, Title 23: Highways." Committee print (94–12).

Committee on Science and Technology.—"Background Materials on U.S.-U.S.S.R. Cooperative Agreements in Science and Technology." Committee publication (November 1975).

Committee on Ways and Means.—"Committee Members Selection of Proposals for Consideration in the First Phase of Tax Reform Consideration." Committee print.

The Joint Committee on Congressional Operations publishes status reports on court cases of vital interest to Members of Congress (for further information on this document see page 62). The committee from time to time publishes other studies or analyses having direct legislative utility, e.g., "Leading Cases on Congressional Investigative Powers."

The Joint Economic Committee supplies economic facts and analyses to keep Congress abreast of developing trends that could affect revenues or expenditures, including the monthly "Economic Indicators," a weekly synopsis of economic news, and "notes from the Joint Economic Committee," reviewing committee activites, as well as special studies on individual subjects.

The Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation publishes occasional studies or analyses of relevant issues and proposals such as the series of brief studies the committee published in the fall of 1975 on a wide variety of issues from real estate tax shelters to capital formation.

BUDGET "SCOREKEEPING" REPORTS

The Budget Committee will provide weekly "scorekeeping" reports to all Members about how each spending bill fits within the target established by the Congress under the new budget procedure.

LAW REVISION COUNSEL

The Office of Law Revision Council (5–3928) was established in the 93d Congress, by House Resolution 988, to assist the House Judiciary Committee in the development of an official and positive codification of the laws of the United States and keep it current. The office is performing the work previously done by the staff of Subcommittee No. 3 of the House Judiciary Committee.

The primary information services include the complete compilation, restatement, and revision of the general and permanent laws of the United States, periodically updated editions of the United States Code, and the examination of public laws to make recommendations to the Judiciary Committee for the repeal of obsolete, superfluous, and superseded provisions.

LEGISLATIVE CLASSIFICATION OFFICE

This office, also established by House Resolution 988 of the 93d Congress, is not yet operational. When it is, the office will provide the House with a system that ties together authorization statutes, committee jurisdictions, appropriation acts, budget authority, budget outlays, unexpended balances, and other relevant data. The system design would include cross-reference capability.

HOUSE INFORMATION SYSTEMS

The House Information Systems (H.I.S.) 5–9276 staff of the Committee on House Administration provides computer and information systems support to Members, committees, and officers of the U.S. House of Representatives. H.I.S. under the guidance and direction of the Committee on House Administration and its Ad Hoc Subcommittee on Computers, is responsible for the design, development, and operation of computer applications for the House.

Computer systems development and operations occur in three major application areas. Member applications are those related to Member's legislative information needs, such as the vote recording system and the bill status system. Committee applications include those systems designed to meet committee needs for computer support in their legislative, oversight, and administrative responsibilities. Examples of H.I.S. support to committees currently include such systems as committee calendar preparation, text processing, individual income tax revenue estimation, economic forecasting, R. & D. grants, prototype budget control, fiscal information, Federal budget analysis and comparative statements of new budget authority. Administrative applications are those H.I.S. utilizes in support of the administrative functions of the House. These include the financial management system, the Federal Elections Campaign Act system, the office equipment and stationery inventory systems, and the congressional carpool system.

A number of the systems developed and operated by H.I.S. are described briefly in the following paragraphs. Additional information on these systems or other H.I.S. activities can be obtained by calling that office. (Also see Subcommittee on Computers, page 58.)

Bill Status System

The Bill Status System (5–1772) provides information identifying bills and describing their status. Bill identification data are the bill number, names of sponsor and cosponsors, date of introduction, committee(s) to which it was referred, titles (brief title, long title, and/or official title), bill digest, and key words by which the bill can be identified. Bill status data are descriptions of actions taken on the bill, dates of such action, and the names of subcommittees and committees involved.

While most inquiries can be answered by telephone, a printed copy of the answer can also be provided. An overnight report is recommended when a number of bills are involved or a large quantity of information is desired. Automatic tracking of legislation which is of special interest to the Members is also available. When such bills undergo a change in status, the system provides a hard-copy report which is sent to the requester's office the following day. Detailed profiles of the status of all legislative measures are retrievable. Other special inquiries are possible, e.g., a listing of all bills a Member has sponsored or a list of all bills which have been introduced on a specific subject.

Comparative Statement of New Budget Authority System

The Comparative Statement of New Budget Authority (CSBA) System provides a capability to manipulate budget data for presentation of alternative budgetary considerations; it is used extensively by subcommittees of the House Committee on Appropriations in their markup sessions. The system organizes the OMB master tape data according to subcommittee jurisdictions, provides updates based on congressional actions (committee and floor actions in the House and Senate), and produces the CSBA reports. In effect, this system provides a "snap shot" of an appropriations bill at one point in time. The system reduces the time required to present alternative CSBA considerations and in many cases, permits the presentation of CSBA reports heretofore impossible (within time and analytical constraints) to produce.

Federal Budget Analysis System

The Federal Budget Analysis System correlates Appropriations subcommittee jurisdiction to budget accounts established by the executive branch. It permits detailed analysis of executive branch budget actions and ad hoc selection and comparision of budget data elements (e.g., by function, account, bureau, and department) with outlays, current budget authority, new budget authority, receipts, and spending authority. The system extends staff analytical capabilities by replacing the previous completely manual method that was limited to general analysis. This system is used primarily by the House Committees on the Budget and Appropriations, and the Congressional Budget Office.

Fiscal Data Base System

The Fiscal Data Base System is the principal automated system for organizing the fiscal/budgetary information received from the Office of Management and Budget into the proper form for efficient use by the two related automated systems, Federal Budget Analysis System and the Comparative Statements of New Budget Authority System (CSBA).

Prototype Budget Control Systems

The Prototype Budget Control Systems, for the House Appropriations Committee and for the House Budget Committee, address the requirements imposed on these committees by the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974 (P.L. 93-344). They will aggregate budgetary data, apply algorithms distinctive to either the Appropriations or Budget Committee requirements, and produce reports responsive to the budget control legislation.

Committee Calendar Preparation System

The Committee Calendar Preparation System was developed to support the preparation, production and maintenance of master and daily committee calendars. Each committee that uses the system has a terminal which is used to enter and change calendar data. The system provides the capabilities for the committee staff to update the committee file, and to store and manipulate the data so that calendar information can be edited, corrected, and displayed in various ways. The system extracts, reformats, and adds typesetting instructions so that the calendar can be produced on electronic photocomposition equipment at the Government Printing Office.

Vote Recording System

The Vote Recording System is an automated system which allows the House to conduct speedier recorded votes, to display the voting tabulations while the vote is still in progress, to provide a printed copy of the vote, and to retain the vote results for historical purposes. The system allows a Member to check how or whether his or her vote has been recorded while the vote is still in progress.

Consoles at the Majority and Minority tables provide various breakdowns of the voting data, e.g., listing of Members by party and vote preference, by committee or State designations, and by yea, nay, or not voting categories. A cathode-ray terminal and printer in the Tally Clerk's office is used to prepare reports from the system's data, such as a report of Member's votes in roster order, listing of nonvoting Members, voting results in Congressional Record format, and summary reports of each day's voting activity.

Vote History System

The Vote History System collects, stores, and disseminates information of all recorded votes that have occurred in the House Chamber. The input to the system is the recorded vote data from the vote recording system; the outputs are printed reports of individual Member voting records, and special reports that analyze recorded votes by subject and party. The system eliminates the manual effort previously required to produce voting records for Members and the House leadership and assists in the researching and organizing of historical vote data. (See Member's Individual Voting Record, page 5.)

Individual Income Tax Revenue Estimation System

The Individual Income Tax Revenue Estimation System provides the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation with the facilities to access the individual income tax simulation model at the Department of the Treasury. A terminal in the offices of the Joint Committee is linked directly to the Treasury computer, making the estimation of the effects of changes in the income tax laws more efficient. More importantly, the Joint Committee for the first time has a capability to use the tax model without dependence on Department of Treasury personnel. Further work is underway to develop an individual income tax simulation model that would reside in the House computer.

Financial Management System

The Financial Management System is designed to provide comprehensive support to all Finance Office functions of the Clerk, including payroll, personnel, accounting, and budget. The system currently provides on-line processing of payroll and personnel data. Terminals located in the Finance Office provide an immediate response/result capability. This system is designed to reduce clerical (manual) work in the Finance Office functions.

Special Committee Support Activities

H.I.S. also supports committees of the House in numerous special research and analysis activities related to committee oversight and investigative functions. For example, H.I.S. is assisting the Agriculture and Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committees in data input and analysis tasks and H.I.S. is providing economic forecasting and modeling services for the Agriculture, Budget, and the Banking, Currency, and Housing Committees. The Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, CBO, and the Joint Economic Committee are also accessing these forecasting models.

H.I.S. is also providing support in numerous areas to CBO related to its functions under Public Law 93–344, the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974.

In the past HIS has provided an analysis of pension plans for the Pension Task Force of the House Education and Labor Committee, an analysis of astronomy grants for the Science and Technology Committee, and an analysis of welfare figures for a study of welfare programs by the Joint Economic Committee.

Text Processing System

This system is designed to assist committees in the production of committee documentation, in the maintenance of mailing lists, and in the more efficient maintenance of internal administrative reports and output. The system provides a generalized capability to allow committee staff to store, edit, and selectively retrieve textual information that is used by committees to carry out their own internal functions and responsibilities.

HOUSE LIBRARY

The House Library (5–0462) is a legislative and legal quick reference library for House Members and staff. The Library, originated in May 1792, is the depository of all documents produced by the House and its committees such as Congressional Record, committee hearings, etc., of previous Congresses. For a representative list of available volumes see Appendix D of the Congressional Handbook for the U.S. House of Representatives (published by the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations).

Information services include responses to telephone inquiries, assistance of the librarians, a reading room, loan service, limited research, and limited copying of needed data. Personal visits to the library to use its facilities provide for the better utilization of this information resource.

A branch of the House Library is located adjacent to the House floor and it is open when the House is in session. The branch office contains a number of reference volumes, both regular and legislative, which may be used for reference but are not available for loan.

DOCUMENT ROOM

Established under the Rules of the House, the Document Room (5–3456) provides copies of House and Senate bills, resolutions, reports, public laws, compilations of laws, and various other publications. One may request a bill by number, sponsor, or subject matter. Companion bills may also be requested. For a list of compilations available see the Congressional Handbook for the House of Representatives (published by the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations).

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS REFERENCE CENTERS

The Library of Congress maintains three reference centers for Members of Congress and staffs. In the strict sense of the word, they are not in-house information resources but they are located in the House Office Buildings and the Capitol where they are already accessible, therefore, they are listed in this part of the inventory with only a basic definition of their services. An expanded definition will be included in the inventory of the Library of Congress. Two of these centers, the Rayburn and Longworth Building Centers are operated by the Congressional Research Service of the Library, while the Center in the Capitol is under the direction of the Library itself.

Rayburn Reference Center

This Center (5–6958) provides access to the Library's services through a core reference collection and a research staff to assist with spot reference requests in person or by telephone. The Center is equipped with a photocopier, computer terminals to access SCORPIO and the New York Times Information Bank, and a microfilm reader.

Longworth Reference Center

The Longworth Center (5–2030), a smaller facility than the Rayburn Center, maintains a small reference library and periodical collection.

Capitol Book Room

The Capitol Book Room (5–3000), under the Loan Division of the Library of Congress, maintains a small reference library in the basement of the Capitol. It also has a direct connection with the main Library of Congress Building by a pneumatic tube for almost immediate delivery of materials from the Library.

FORMAL AND INFORMAL HOUSE GROUPS

Within the House, several formal and informal organizations serve as information sources for their own members and, in some cases, for any Member of the House. These information sources include the Congressional Black Caucus, Congressional Rural Caucus, Congressional Clearinghouse on Women's Rights, Democratic Research Organization, Democratic Study Group, United Democrats of Congress, House Republican Conference, House Republican Policy Committee, Republican Research Committee, Republican Study Committee, The Wednesday Group, Environmental Study Conference, New England Congressional Caucus and Members of Congress for Peace Through Law.

The Congressional Black Caucus (5–1691) staff provides information primarily for the membership of that organization. The information is used to initiate and support legislation which would benefit minorities. Services provided to the membership are the publication of a Black Caucus Report and studies of minority problems. Conferences on minority problems are sponsored by the Black Caucus.

Congressional Rural Caucus

The Congressional Rural Caucus (5–5080) is a bipartisan coalition of House Members whose purpose is to protect rural interests. The caucus disseminates information on legislation pertaining to rural matters affecting its members and holds weekly seminars for members of the caucus and their staffs by outside experts. The caucus has a small support staff which conducts research for members on an ad hoc basis.

Congressional Clearinghouse on Women's Rights

The Congressional Clearinghouse on Women's Rights (5–2947) is a bipartisan organization which serves as a source of information on issues pertaining to women's rights both in Congress and around the Nation. Membership is limited to House Members. The organization publishes a weekly newsletter which is available on request to Members of Congress. Continual tracking of pending legislation affecting women is also provided.

Democratic Research Organization

The Democratic Research Organization (DRO) (5–8083) is a research and legislative analysis group composed of moderate-to-conservative Democrats but is open to all House Democrats. DRO provides research on various issues, legislative analysis, and also arranges for briefings by various executive branch agencies and nongovernment groups.

Democratic Study Group

The Democratic Study Group (DSG) (5–5858) is a legislative research and coordinating organization composed of moderate-to-liberal Members of the House. It offers a variety of services and publications.

The available services include research materials to brief Members on legislation, controversial issues and other matters; orientation and seminars for new Members and Legislative Assistants; seminars dealing with various aspects of managing a congressional office.

The available publications include: Legislative Report, published weekly, provides a summary and other pertinent information on every bill scheduled for House action (committee activity, legal information, legislative history, oversight, proposed amendments, and scheduling); Staff Bulletin, published weekly, is a general information source for Members and staff. It provides information on committee hearings and markup sessions, legislative calendar, reported legislation, model responses to constituent mail, listings of Members' projects and of Members seeking cosponsors, and notices of rulings and proposed rulings by various Federal agencies; Vote Books, published monthly, reprints all record votes in the House, with explanations, commentaries and references; Fact Sheets, published occasionally, include analyses of major legislation; arguments for and against issues; background and summary of bills; and comment on political situations; Special Reports, published occasionally, provide background and analysis of controversial issues and other matters of interest to Members and summaries of the accomplishments of the House during a particular Congress or portion thereof.

United Democrats of Congress

The purpose of the United Democrats of Congress (UDC), a loosely knit group of House Members, is to accurately reflect the moderate and divergent philosophies of all Democrats.

The objectives of the UDC are threefold: strengthen the core of the Democratic Party; insure that the party remain responsive and responsible to the electorate; and promote harmony and unity within the party.

To accomplish these objectives the UDC: meets once a month to discuss legislative and political issues and encourage active participation in party affairs; utilizes the staffs of various members of UDC to provide research and materials for their members; and provides a liaison committee to inform its members from the various geographical areas (corresponding to the zones of the Democratic Caucus) of the activities of the organization.

House Republican Conference

The Republican Conference (5–5107) functions as a party service arm and organizational forum. The Conference provides a governing, policy, and research organization for House Republicans.

Periodically, the Republican Conference schedules briefings by recognized authorities, both from within the Congress and outside, on problems of immediate concern. These briefings are directed toward the Republican Members of Congress but are open to the general public. The conference also sponsors briefings for Republican congressional staff, with the topic being discussed directed toward casework.

The Republican Conference publishes a weekly Legislative Digest which summarizes and provides background and pro and con information on legislation scheduled for floor action during the ensuing week. The Digest also publishes in-depth supplements on all major issues before the Congress.

House Republican Policy Committee

The purpose of the Republican Policy Committee (5–6168) is to advise House Republicans on major pending legislation. The committee publishes a weekly Policy Statement which states the Republican position on issues and includes pertinent facts.

Republican Research Committee

The Republican Research Committee (5–0871) is the official research arm of the Republican leadership. The committee is directly responsible for the formation and coordination of task forces, made up of GOP Members, which investigate long range issues.

The committee publishes four types of research products: Background Reports, consisting of in-depth analyses of controversial issues facing the Congress (background information, legislative history, and oversight); Spotlight Reports, consisting of a short summary essay on topical items directed toward helping answer legislative mail; Fact Sheet/Columns, consisting of brief, vote-oriented, fact sheets (usually published after-the-fact); Issue Up-Dates, consisting of tally sheets of legislation pending in certain areas (bill status).

The committee also provides information and research services for Republican Members on an ad hoc basis.

Republican Study Committee

The Republican Study Committee (RSC) (5–0587) is a legislative research and coordinating organization composed of moderate-to-conservative Republicans in the House.

Available services include: research services for individual or group projects; legislative briefings on current issues; meetings with outside experts; coordination of House floor activity on major legislative issues; and whip calls.

Available publications include: Weekly Legislative Preview, a summary of scheduled House floor action (floor activity and scheduling); Weekly Bulletin, announcement of RSC services (constituent requests and casework); Background Papers (published when appropriate) detailed examinations of important issues; and Fact

Sheets (published when appropriate) information on specific legislation.

Wednesday Group

The Wednesday Group (5–0580) is an organization composed of moderate Republicans who meet each Wednesday to discuss committee actions. The group has a small research support staff which is used to develop policy positions.

Environmental Study Conference

The Environmental Study Conference (5–2988) is a bipartisan, nonposition-taking organization of the House. Their available services include: information and research materials on environmental legislation and issues; assistance in coordinating Members' environmentally related projects; briefings for Members and staff on environmental issues. Publications include: weekly bulletin providing summaries and analyses of environmental legislation scheduled for House action; information about committee action on environmental legislation and issues; and information about environmentally related activities of Government agencies; fact sheets and briefing papers analyzing major environmental legislation and issues and special alerts, advising Members and staff of immediate upcoming major environmental House action.

New England Congressional Caucus

The New England Congressional Caucus (9–543–3396) is a bipartisan organization composed of the Representatives from the six New England States. The caucus publishes background memos, press releases and legislative alerts (scheduling); arranges meetings with outside experts; prepares questions for committee hearings; and provides legislative research and analyses.

Members of Congress for Peace Through Law

Bipartisan and bicameral (with a five-person staff, 9–544–4250), this organization with 170 or more congressional Members aims to enhance their capacity and that of the Congress, to evaluate policy, influence legislation, and oversee administration in such key foreign policy areas as foreign economic policy, international institutions, international resources, developing nations, and arms control and military affairs, by creating institutional links between lawmakers and outside thinkers and practitioners. On key issues, MCPL arranges briefings, conducts seminars, holds forums, provides background papers, prepares testimony, mobilizes support for legislation, coordinates on- and off-floor legislative strategy, drafts bills and amendments, issues statements and in general serves as a catalyst among the ideas, institutions, organizations and individuals which have impact on international peace. Open to all Members, independently financed, MCPL works through seven issue committees and makes its reports and studies available on request.

SECTION 2: INFORMATION ON THE MANAGING OF CONGRESSIONAL OFFICES

CONGRESSIONAL HANDBOOK

The Joint Committee on Congressional Operations (5–8267) prepares and distributes the Congressional Handbook, a looseleaf compendium of administrative information for congressional offices, which is updated frequently. Specifically, the Congressional Handbook describes the allowances for establishing and maintaining congressional offices, services available to Members, information sources, privileges of Members and benefits of employment.

The Handbook also provides detailed descriptions of the duties and responsibilities of the officers of the House who perform or direct administrative functions and disseminate what can best be described as management information. The officers of the House in this category include the Doorkeeper, Sergeant at Arms, Postmaster and Chaplain. The offices under the Clerk of the House in this category include the Clerk's Document Room, Finance Office, Office Equipment Service, Office Supply Service, Property Supply, Publication Distribution Service and Reading Clerk.

OFFICE MANAGEMENT AND SPACE LAYOUTS

Upon request, the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations (5–8267) will provide assistance to improve congressional offices' organization and management. In addition, grid boards simulating office suites and scale models of office furniture and equipment are available for use at the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations. They can be used to visually arrange a variety of staff and equipment placements.

PLACEMENT OFFICE

The broad function of this office, which is operated by the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations, is to develop and maintain a coordinated placement program to meet congressional needs. The office recommends and maintains procedures for applicant registration, referral, placement, and testing, as well as providing placement advice and guidance to Members, officers and committees.

TRAVEL OFFICE

The Travel Office (5–0812) provides information and travel assistance to Members, committees, and subcommittees. This office will provide assistance in reserving, scheduling, and/or arranging air/rail transportation, hotel/motel accommodations, car rentals, and business meeting facilities.

REGULATIONS ON ALLOWANCES AND EXPENSES

The Committee on House Administration (5–2061) was created by Public Law 79–601 to regulate allowances for Members and oversee the housekeeping functions of the U.S. House of Representatives. The Committee provides a booklet entitled Regulations: Travel and Other Expenses of Committees and Members, with information about travel allowances and reimbursement procedures, most of which is also found in the Congressional Handbook. Information about allowances for automated services may be obtained from the Subcommittee on Computers of the House Administration Committee.

CLERK OF THE HOUSE

The Clerk of the House (5–7000) is the chief fiscal and budgetary officer of the House and the office is responsible for the administrative and operational activities of the House. For a list of the Clerk's major responsibilities and the departments under the Clerk see the Congressional Handbook. (Also see page 2.)

Office of Records and Registration

A specialized office under the Clerk of the House, the Office of Records and Registration (5–1300) is the depository for the registration statements and campaign expense reports of candidates, and their campaign committees, for election to the U.S. House of Representatives, reports of organizations and individuals contributing to candidates and committees, lobbyist registrations and reports, and other reports filed voluntarily by Members with the Clerk of the House.

These documents are available for inspection and copying at the Office of Records and Registration. Advice in connection with the regulations and laws on the filing of such registration and expense reports may also be obtained through this office.

HOUSE COMMISSION ON CONGRESSIONAL MAILING STANDARDS

The House Commission on Congressional Mailing Standards, created by Public Law 93–191, is directed to issue regulations governing the proper use of the franking privilege, as well as to provide guidance, assistance, advice, and counsel through advisory opinions or consultations in connection with the mailing or contemplated mailing of franked mail under the proper sections of title 39, the United States Code.

The Commission publishes Use of the Congressional Frank by Members of the House of Representatives containing the regulations and guidelines for using the congressional frank. A summary of the franking law and the regulations and guidelines for using the frank are also contained in the Congressional Handbook.

STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

The Committee on Standards of Official Conduct (5–7103) provides information (under regulated conditions) about the financial disclosures of Members, officers and professional staff required by rule XLIV of the House; and from time to time publishes Advisory Opinions about the propriety of certain activities and conduct of Members, officers and employees, which are collected in the appendixes of the Congressional Handbook.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PRINTING

The Joint Committee on Printing (4–5241) is the major contact between Members and committees of the Congress and the Government Printing Office. The Joint Committee has jurisdiction over congressional printing.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD CLERK—CAPITOL

The Congressional Record Clerk (5–2100) in the Capitol is an employee of the Government Printing Office but the office's primary responsibilities is to Members of Congress; therefore, it is included in the in-house inventory. This office assists Members in obtaining Congressional Record reprints, as well as accepting the orders for manila envelopes, charged against the Member's allowance of these envelopes.

INFORMATION OF VALUE FOR CASEWORK

Liaison offices have been established by a number of Federal agencies and the military services primarily to assist Members of Congress in helping their constituents who have problems in these specific areas. While these offices are not in-house in the true sense of the word, their locations in the House Office Buildings make them readily available to Members and staff; therefore, they are included here. Additional information about the parent agencies are included in other parts of the inventory.

Problems involving Federal employment, Civil Service Retirement and related matters are handled by the Civil Service Liaison Office (5–4955). Matters in connection with veterans and their dependents can be directed to the Veterans' Administration Liaison Office (5–2280). Requests for information about the military or on a matter involving military personnel can be discussed with the liaison office for the service involved. The military services which have liaison offices in the House are the Air Force (5–6656), Navy and Marines (5–7214), and the Army (5–3853).

SECTION 3: INFORMATION ON THE ORGANIZATION AND OPERATION OF CONGRESS

JEFFERSON'S MANUAL AND RULES OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

This section primarily consists of publications; however, most of the offices mentioned in this report also are sources of information, in their areas of responsibilities, on the organization and operation of Congress. They are not listed again to avoid duplication but these offices should be kept in mind as sources of such information.

Among the principal sources of information on Congressional organization and operation matters are:

Committee on Rules;
Committee on House Administration;
Parliamentarian;
Clerk of the House, and Joint Committee on Congressional Operations.

Jefferson's Manual and Rules of the House of Representatives is issued as an official congressional publication which also includes the Constitution of the United States. As stated in the preface, the publication "contains the fundamental source material for the parliamentary procedure used in the House of Representatives; the Constitution of the United States; applicable provisions of Jefferson's Manual (of Parliamentary Practice); the Rules of the House (as they exist as of the date of the preface); and pertinent decisions of the Speakers and other presiding officers of the House and of the Committees of the Whole which have been rendered in interpretation of the rules and other procedural authority used in the House of Representatives."

DESCHLER'S PROCEDURE IN THE U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Deschler's Procedure is a one-volume summary of the modern precedents and practices of the U.S. House of Representatives (86th Congress to the 93d Congress), which updates Cannon's Procedure in the House of Representatives.

CANNON'S PROCEDURE IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES (OUT OF PRINT)

This 1962 House Document is a useful synopsis of rules and procedures and is designed primarily for the use of Members on the floor.

HINDS' PRECEDENTS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND CANNON'S PRECEDENTS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Hinds' Precedents is published in 11 volumes and contains a detailed case study of the procedures and precedents of the House. Hinds' original five-volume work, prepared in 1907, was updated by three additional volumes by Cannon in 1936. In 1941, a three-volume index to all eight volumes was published.

MANUAL ON LEGISLATIVE PROCEDURE IN THE UNITED STATES HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

This manual, which is revised periodically, is distributed to Republican Members and staff members by the House Republican Leader's office. It is designed "to distill in readable form the hundreds of significant rulings of the Chair based upon the Constitution, Jefferson's Manual, the Rules of the House and Cannon's Book of Procedures."

RULES ADOPTED BY THE COMMITTEES OF CONGRESS

The Rules Adopted By The Committees of Congress is a compilation of the texts of rules adopted by the various committees of the House and Senate. This document is put together by the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations at the beginning of each Congress.

COURT PROCEEDINGS AND ACTIONS OF VITAL INTEREST TO THE CONGRESS

The Joint Committee on Congressional Operations three times a year publishes cumulative reports of Court Proceedings and Actions of Vital Interest to the Congress.

CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY

This basic reference work is compiled under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing and is issued in revised versions after the convening of each new session of the Congress. It includes:

(1) Biographical information on all Members of the Congress, assembled according to State delegations;

(2) Information on committee memberships;

(3) A listing of certain professional staff and committee personnel;

(4) Descriptive material on the Capitol Building and Grounds including room-numbered floor plans of all levels of the Capitol;

(5) The names and titles of top executives in the various Federal departments and independent agencies;

(6) Information on the Washington area membership of the Federal judicial system, the District of Columbia government, international organizations, the diplomatic community and the news media corps;

(7) Maps of congressional districts.

CONGRESSIONAL PICTORIAL DIRECTORY

The Pictorial Directory is compiled under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing and is issued in revised versions after the convening of each new Congress. It is composed of pictures of Members with identification of each Member and his State or district.

BIOGRAPHICAL DIRECTORY OF THE AMERICAN CONGRESS

The Biographical Directory of the American Congress is compiled under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing and published as an official congressional document. The book is updated every 10 years, with the latest edition covering the years 1774–1971.

The document includes biographies of all Members who have served in Congress; lists of memberships of the Congresses arranged according to State delegations; information on the Continental Congress including the places and times of its meetings, its officers, and the memberships of its State delegations; and the names and positions of the officers of the executive branch during that period.

HOW OUR LAWS ARE MADE

The booklet How Our Laws Are Made is published as an official congressional document and is issued with periodic revisions. The publication traces the legislative process in chapters which include sources of legislation, introduction of legislation, consideration by committees, consideration by either House, Presidential action and etc.

OUR AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

Our American Government is published as an official congressional document and is issued in revised versions after the convening of each new Congress. It lists the Members of the Congress according to State delegations and provides information on the Federal Government within the guidelines indicated by the publication's subtitles—"What Is It? How Does It Function?; 150 Questions and Answers."

TELEPHONE DIRECTORY, U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The Telephone Directory is compiled by the Clerk of the House of Representatives, and, in general, is issued in revised versions whenever there is a change in the House membership or substantial changes in committee and subcommittee chairmanships. It includes an explanation of the House legislative electric bell signals and instructions for the use of telephone systems, standard directory information on congressional offices, and important executive branch and private organizations.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA (REVISED AND ANNOTATED)

This volume consists of an analysis of the Constitution and its amendments together with historic and leading Supreme Court decisions interpreting each provision. It also lists Federal, State and local laws determined to be unconstitutional and Supreme Court decisions overruling previous decisions. The publication is prepared by the Congressional Research Service and issued in revised versions every 10 years, with cumulative supplements issued every 2 years. The main publication, as described in the preface, is "a volume which collects and assimilates not only the judicial decisions but the customs and practices of the constitutional system." The format is an article-by-article, amendment-by-amendment treatment of the Constitution, with each section including commentaries based on historical and legal considerations.

UNITED STATES CODE (U.S.C.)

The United States Code is the official compilation and codification (the arrangement of laws by subject matter) of all Federal statutes presently in force. The Code is prepared and published under the supervision of the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives. Only the general and permanent laws of the United States are codified in this publication. Temporary, local or private laws are not included. The laws are arranged by subject into 50 titles.

The Code contains an alphabetical subject index, as well as a popular name index and tables which convert the Statutes at Large, Revised Statutes, Public Laws, Executive Orders, Proclamations and Reorganization Plans citations to the proper United States Code citation.

The current edition is the 1970 publication.

UNITED STATES CODE SUPPLEMENT (U.S.C. SUPP.)

The United States Code Supplement is the annual cumulative supplement to the United States Code containing all changes in or additions to the general and permanent laws since the last edition of the Code. The Supplement is arranged in the same manner as the Code and contains the same indexes and tables.

LEGAL INFORMATION DIRECTLY CONCERNING CONGRESS AS AN INSTITUTION

Members, committees and their staffs may request from the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations (5–8267) information on matters of law which directly concern the Congress as an institution.

The Joint Committee maintains extensive files of current litigation involving the Members and the Congress in connection with its responsibility to advise the Congress "of court proceedings and actions of vital interest to the Congress." Case files are available in the Joint Committee office, 1628 Longworth, for consultation by Members and committees, and the legal staff is available to discuss the Joint Committee's research into such legal areas as the speech or debate clause immunity, investigative hearings, contempt of Congress, etc.

The Joint Committee cannot provide legal advice, nor does it undertake to assist Members in pursuing litigation or any other lawyer-client relationship. Information provided will be limited to that developed in the Committee's performance of its statutory responsibilities.
